GOP House Committee Wields Axe On Truman's First Fund Request

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The Republican-controlled house appropriations committee swung a legislative meat axe today at President Truman's first money request for 1947—chopping it more than in two: From $315,546,600 to $139,360,000.

Of the entire 56 per cent reduction of $176,186,600 recommended by the committee in the first supply bill sent to the house floor since Republicans won control of congress, $175,683,500, was applied to the Veterans administration. The committee promised, however, to review that agency's detailed needs later.

Today's action is not related directly to the proposed $6,000,000,000 clash in the President's $37,500,000,000 budget for the coming fiscal year. The bill deals only with deficiencies in funds already appropriated for the current fiscal year ending June 30.

Coupled with the measure were recommendations for the cancellation of $706,148,579 in appropriations already made and for liquidation of the Civilian Production Administration by June 30 instead of Dec. 31.

In the case of another war-born agency, however—the office of Defense Transportation—the committee recommended a two-months extension of life—from the end of April to the end of June—because of the crisis resulting from the shortage of freight cars. The committee recommended $130,000 in addition ODT funds, a reduction of $13,000 from the President's suggestion.

The committee agreed on $136,200,000 as a stop-gap fund for the veterans administration, which said its original allotment of $553,805,915 will be exhausted by the end of this month. The agency had asked for $307,258,000.

"Existing conditions in the veterans administration," the committee said in explanation of its action, "require very careful hearings and exhaustive study before the appropriation of the amount proposed."

The committee said it "is not at all satisfied that the veterans administration is taking proper precautions to conserve the government's fund in the cost of administration and desires to secure full information on this point."

The amount recommended, the committee said, should carry VA until the end of March.

To help finance the cost of handling checks for payments of income tax refunds and for allotments to veterans attending school, the committee approved an additional $3,000,000 for the Treasury's division of disbursement.

The report said earlier estimates of the number of payments fell far short of actuality. There are nearly 2,000,000 ex GI's in school compared with an expected 670,000. Also the first estimate was for 7,000,000 tax refunds by June 30 but, the committee said, there will be in excess of 30,000,000 by then due to a speed-up in repayment plans.

The bill also carries an item of $30,000 for the customary payments of $10,000 each to the widows of three former house members, William G. Gallagher of Minnesota, William R. Barry of New York and Robert K. Henry of Wisconsin.

The $706,148,579 in previous appropriations the committee recommended for cancellation exceeded by $10,260,000 the amounts proposed by President Truman.

The President has recommended no rescission in OPA funds, but the committee cut off $9,000,000; he had suggested a cut of $1,200,000 for the Civilian Production Administration, and the committee doubled that; also it approved a $50,000 recovery of allotments to the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, whereas the President had recommended none.

Foreseeing the liquidation of OPA by June 30, the committee said the reduced funds should permit the agency to "discharge its full responsibilities under the law, wind up its affairs, and turn over all necessary records to the archivist."

Col. Johnson, CAP Leader, Killed In Cleveland Crash

CLEVELAND, Feb. 17.—Col. Earle L. Johnson, national commander of the Civil Air Patrol and one of America's most distinguished airmen, fell to his death along with two other servicemen in suburban North Royalton yesterday shortly after taking off at the controls of an army twin-engine transport plane.

STEEL PRODUCTION HELD ENCOURAGING

CLEVELAND, Feb. 17.—Steel production, now at a record pace-time rate, has "encouraging" prospects for continuing at that height, says the magazine Steel.

"Despite weather difficulties, steel ingot production continues to rise, and last week made new high records for peace-time output," at 93.5 per cent of rated capacity, said the publication.

"Last week's rate, if continued throughout the year, would result in a total production of nearly 85,000,000 tons of steel, about five per cent below the all-time record set in 1944 when war production was at its peak.

Among the districts making advances in the steel ingot rate last week was Detroit, up eight points to 92 per cent. St. Louis gained 6.5 per cent to 69. Pittsburgh three to 91.5. New England two to 90, and Chicago one to 92. Operations were unchanged at 99 per cent in Birmingham, 90.5 in Buffalo and 89 in Youngstown. Cleveland was down 5.5 points to 91. Wheeling dropped 4.5 to 85.5 and Cincinnati one to 90.

Steel said "talk of possible reduction in prices accompanying a moderate wage advance are described in the trade as purely speculative."

Pressure Dries New Ink On Paper Immediately

AKRON, Feb. 17.—The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. today announced development of a new printing ink that dries with the pressure of type against paper, making it virtually smudge and offset proof.

Moisture is driven from the ink at the instant the type hits the paper, just as water is squeezed from a sponge, Dr. L. B. Sebrill, director of the company's research laboratories, said.

Because the coloring matter behaves like a sponge, the ink does not lose the solvent until it is squeezed on the printing press and the ink, therefore, does not dry on the rollers or in the reservoir, Dr. Sebrill said.

The Goodyear researcher said synthetic resin was ground with the pigment and since the resin required no oxidation, the ink was dry as soon as the pressure pressed it out the solvent.

Parley Fails To End Phone Strike

Representatives of the Ohio Federation of Telephone Workers and the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. failed to reach an agreement to end the strike of district employees after a 10-hour conciliation session last night in Cleveland.

Federal conciliators announced the session had been adjourned subject to resumption at the wish of the parties involved.

The strike, now in its sixth day, has affected more than 700 workers and tied up long distance service in Salem and Youngstown.

The union is protesting the assignment of three men for work on the toll test boards. These jobs, it contends, should have been offered to employees with greater seniority.

BRIDE-ELECT'S MOTHER KILLED

Mrs. Sophie Muntean Hit By Car On S. Ellsworth; Groom's Auto Looted

Death intervened in the wedding plans of Miss Elizabeth Muntean and Louis Baronzzi, both of Lisbon, here early Sunday morning.

Mrs. Sophie Muntean, mother of the bride-to-be, was struck down and killed almost instantly by an automobile as she walked across S. Ellsworth ave. at 1:52 a. m. Sunday after completing decorations in the Romanian hall for a reception which was to have followed the wedding of her daughter, scheduled for 3 p. m. Sunday.

It was Salem's first fatal accident of 1947.

Coroner Ernest Sturgis, who investigated, said Mrs. Muntean died as a result of a basal skull fracture and crushed parietals. She also suffered a fracture of the right leg. She was dead upon arrival at Salem City hospital.

Driver Exonerated
Mrs. Muntean was struck by a car driven by William Lee Whitehouse, 16, of 558 W. Clark st., East Palestine, as she crossed Ellsworth ave. from the west side to the east, police said.

The driver was released after a coroner's inquest today.

Police Chief Nerr Gaunt said Whitehouse's car was travelling south on Ellsworth ave. He told police he swerved to avoid hitting the woman and struck a car going north, driven by Richard Hollibaugh of R. D. 4, Salem. Both cars were damaged by the collision, police said.

Mrs. Muntean's brother, George Stankovich, Jr., of Salem, was standing on the west side of Ellsworth ave., in front of the Romanian hall, and witnessed the tragedy. Several others also saw the mishap, police said.

A passenger with Whitehouse was Charles Conkel, 19, of East Palestine.

The death of the bride's mother was not the only blight on the wedding party's activity Saturday.

Groom's Car Ransacked
Sometime between 10:35 p. m. Saturday and 12:45 a. m. Sunday someone ripped open the rear flap on Baronzzi's 1947 Mercury convertible.

Baby Is Found Safe, Toledo Couple Held In Kidnaping

TOLEDO, Feb. 17.—Police Sgt. Margaret Slater said today full details of the case of 14-month-old Donald Robert Waltman would be given Sheriff H. G. Cline of Newton county, Mo., upon his arrival here today to take into custody a Toledo couple on a charge of kidnaping the child.

The baby's mother, Mrs. Virginia Waltman of Neosho, Mo., has obtained a warrant charging Mr. and Mrs. Robert Humbarger, who live near Toledo, with kidnaping the child eight months ago.

The policewoman said Mrs. Humbarger, 22, told her this story:

The baby was baptized in the Catholic church at Holland, O., last summer, his name changed from Donald Robert Waltman to Robert Donald Humbarger and entered in army records as a dependent of Humbarger.

This was done to produce proof of dependency required by the army.

The couple then waited four months before receiving government funds for the child. A check of $290 was received before Humbarger was discharged from the army.

The Humbargers, a childless couple, said they "fell in love" with the boy while rooming at the home of Mrs. Waltman.

Brotherhood — You Live It

The question which is sparked in the minds of everybody aware of the 14th observance of American Brotherhood week is what they are supposed to do about it.

The answer is as simple and direct as the spirit of the word "brotherhood." The purpose of this annual campaign to make people aware of the spirit of brotherhood is to stimulate them to practice it as individuals.

Brotherhood can't be achieved by raising a fund. It doesn't mean anything to talk about it. It can't be adopted in the form of a resolution, worn in the lapel, taken internally like vitamin pills, or smeared on like lipstick.

Brotherhood is a state of mind, a state of mind which accepts other human beings for what they are worth as individuals, without preconceived prejudice or animosity. Brotherhood in the United States, moreover, is a state of mind which attempts to do at the basis of human relations what only can be reflected in, never created by, political organization; namely, to create an atmosphere of tolerance.

In observance of brotherhood during the week which has been set aside for its furtherance, the only reasonable response any individual can make is to live in brotherhood, if it has been neglected, or to live in a little more understandingly if it hasn't.

More Than Atoms Were Split

The dust of the atomic explosions in Japan was still flying when it became evident there would be a split over control of atomic energy inside the United States.

The atomic bomb is the lesser part of nuclear fission. The greater part is the discovery of a new source of energy.

It is as though petroleum, for example, had just been discovered and used to create military explosions of unprecedented violence. Inevitably, forward-looking men would be more interested in the application of petroleum's energy to peacetime uses. The question would be who should control the supply and the knowledge of the new fuel's use.

There would be a hard-fought issue, at least in the United States, over the alternative possibilities of development. Public and private ownership factions would form. As it happened, the oil industry got its start at a time when public ownership had few followers, but if petroleum were to have been discovered within the last 10 years there would have been a real issue.

Public ownership now has a powerful and determined following. This following has been quick to claim rights in the new field of atomic energy. It has gained an early advantage because atomic energy was developed by the government as a military weapon and is of a nature which makes its control by the government more feasible than control of, say, the nation's petroleum resources.

But the issue is there. It has broken out in congressional maneuvering over confirmation of David E. Lilienthal as President Truman's choice for chairmanship of the Atomic Energy commission.

Mr. Lilienthal is an advocate of public development of power resources. He made his mark in public service as chairman of TVA, a public development project. His followers want him to blaze the trail for public control of atomic energy.

Advocates of private enterprise are organizing an opposition; it is only unfortunate that they have done so in a way that has seemed to make the opposition to Lilienthal arise from the prejudice of one reactionary senator.

Control of nuclear fission is as real an issue as the dispute over public vs. private ownership of other vital facilities in the United States.

Senate Prerequisites

Congress does its best to encourage its members to wash their faces and hands and comb their hair before they appear in public.

Cakes of soap, fresh towels and combs and brushes are supplied each member.

Sensors are supplied with snuff, too. At the opening of each session of Congress, Miss Grace Genzberger, who has been clerk in the Senate's sergeant-at-arms office for 28 years, orders the snuff.

Whether the senators use the stuff or not, the two little snuff boxes attached to the wall of the Senate chamber by the doors leading into the lobby have to be filled several times each session.

This has been going on since Congress began. At first the boxes were very ornate. They disappeared every now and then. Miss Genzberger said she finally got just plain boxes that could be screwed on so tightly they couldn't be filched.

In addition to these attentions, senators are supplied little bottles with shaker tops on their desks in the Senate Chamber. The bottles are filled with flumite, a sort of mineral-like sand—that comes from Virginia.

If the senator doesn't carry a blotter or one of those new pens around with him, the flumite can be used to shake over any writing in ink he does while in the Senate. The custom goes back to the old days before blotters.

Strange Heroes

A Moscow shoe factory foreman who thought up some remarkable production improvements has been hailed by the Soviet press as a sort of combination Charles Bedaux and Henry Ford.

It is interesting to read this complimentary comparison and then recall the bitter words the American Communists have said from time to time about Mr. Ford and the Bedaux speed-up system.

Maybe the domestic Reds don't ape every thought and word from Moscow, after all. Or, more likely, the Soviet admiration for industrial efficiency is able to leap even the thick hedge of Soviet ideological prejudice.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, February 18

WHILE there may be some difficulties and delays to confront, on this day, there is also prospect of pushing to ambitious goals which affect the credit, prestige and financial status, as well as the career, personal, social and business affairs generally. With courage, persistent effort and a shrewd re-vamping of schedules and plans, there is much to be gained.

Those whose birthday it is will have to do some re-vamping of their plans and techniques, if certain quite propitious auguries are to be manipulated. The way is clear, under a productive and expanding rule, enhancing credit, popularity, social and domestic relations as well. Tact, determination and diplomacy will win out.

Dangers That Lurk In Colds

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
NOW is the time of year when many people not only contract virus pneumonia, but even present, too, is our old winter enemy—the common cold.

For years now, both physicians and the "man in the street" have been hoping that medical science would come up with a preventive and cure for the common cold.

At times it has looked as if these hopes would be realized but though each new "cure" is hailed with great acclaim, it proves disappointing on trial so that today we must in honesty admit that there is no known method either of preventing or of limiting colds or even of overcoming them rapidly when once they have developed.

A Small Organism
The cold is probably caused by a virus, the smallest of all disease-producing organisms and the one which, generally, we know least about.

It is hoped that a concerted laboratory effort both in America and abroad will be made in the future to learn more about the virus responsible for the cold so that a preventive vaccine may be developed.

Colds in themselves are probably not dangerous although, of course, they cause a great loss of time from work. Their chief danger lies in the fact that they open the door to secondary infection with germs such as streptococci, staphylococci, and pneumococci causing pneumonia.

In view of this fact the modern man is lucky to have the advantages of such things as sulfonamide drugs and penicillin.

In many cases, the administration of these preparations not only seems to lessen the severity of the symptoms, but also helps in preventing infections of the middle ear, the sinuses and the lungs.

By all means the sulfonamides or penicillin should be used in most cases, under the doctor's direction, when complications of a cold develop, particularly when they are due to streptococci, staphylococci or pneumococci.

In some instances it is recommended that the sulfonamide drugs be used in the form of a spray into the nose or throat. In others the use of a penicillin solution spray into the nose, throat or both is recommended. In some instances the penicillin may be given by injection under the skin or taken by mouth.

A person with a cold of any severity will do best if he remains in bed at rest. This not only will help him get well faster but will also keep him from coming in contact with well persons and spreading the infection to others.

The diet should be moderate, well-balanced and, of course, plenty of fluids should be taken. If fever is present, it is always well to have a physician, since the fever may indicate the beginning of one of the many cold complications.

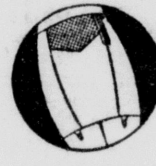

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

Leetonia Council Adopts Tax Rates

LEETONIA, Feb. 17 — A resolution to accept the tax budget as set up by the county taxing commission was adopted at the semi-monthly meeting of the village council.

The total tax due the village inside the 10-mill limitation is $2.90 per thousand which is ten cents higher than the 2.80 mill rate of last year.

From this real estate tax, the village will receive an estimated $5,000 or about $200 more than last year which will go toward financing the general operating expenses of the village.

A one-mill levy outside the ten-mill limitation will net the village about $1,750. Most of this amount is needed to redeem the fire truck bonds.

Carl Morris of the Board of Public Affairs appeared before council in the interests of setting up a commercial water and sewer rate for large industrial users.

The board will complete the details and its findings will be recommended to council for adoption and the passage of an ordinance making new rates effective.

The street committee will check into parking problems and report its recommendations at the next meeting.

The Telephone Strike Is Your Business . . .

Suppose you had a business—a big business or a little business. Suppose you were running a store and you had hardware on one side of the store and garden supplies on the other. There would be times when the people on one side of the store would be busier than the ones on the other side. You would want the right to ask your people to step over to the other side of the store and take care of your customers there. If you weren't going to change their wages or anything you had agreed to do at any time, you would have difficulty in understanding why you couldn't use the people you had.

Then suppose you needed another salesman and you had some men who did packaging, wrapping or stock work and who could be considered for the better job. Of course, you would lean toward using the man oldest in the business because of his experience and loyalty. But how would you feel if you were told that, instead of picking the most able man, you had to select the oldest man in the store who was at all capable of doing the job? You would think that the quality of the job and the result would be of the greatest importance. And up to now, at least, people have been in the habit of thinking that the way to get ahead is to study and to strive to do the best job.

If you could do neither of these two things on a common-sense basis, you would have more people than you needed and you would not have people on the job for which they were best qualified.

To make a long story short, you would probably be undersold by the store across the street and would go broke and people would say that you had it coming to you because you didn't know how to manage.

Now, carry the thinking a step farther—into what is called a public utility—into the telephone business. Folks years ago decided that they didn't like the idea of having more than one telephone company in a town because maybe some of the folks they wanted to call would be hooked up to a different system than they were and they couldn't reach them. Or, if they wanted to reach them, they would have to have two or three telephones and as many directories to look through to find them.

So people by law gave a telephone company the responsibility of being the only one in town that could sell telephone service. And then they said that the company had to toe the mark and manage right and not put the price of the service 'way up. Because now people couldn't go across the street and buy from another outfit. And people said, "You can't close your doors whenever you feel like it and leave us high and dry without any service. You have to stay open and do business regardless."

So there you are. Your boss is the public and he is a friendly fellow, but means business about how much you can charge and whether you are wasteful and whether you are making too much money and whether you are giving good service. And, incidentally, it has come around to where a lot of folks in town own your business, too, and they have a double interest in what goes on there.

Now take those hardware situations and multiply them thousands of times into a statewide telephone system and where do you come out? Either you charge more for the service than you have any right to because you are doing things that are wasteful—or you don't put people on the jobs where they belong and the service goes to pot. The folks in town won't like that.

And they wouldn't like it either if you and your people got to arguing about what to do and shut the doors while you scuffled it out. The people in town said you couldn't do that.

The Ohio Bell Telephone Company has 17,000 employees and furnishes service to a million customers. What happens in the present telephone strike from the standpoint of the immediate effect on the price or the quality of the service is of small moment. But the principles, if extended generally, would be most seriously in contradiction to the obligations imposed upon the company by the public—to furnish the best possible service at the least possible cost.

In this Youngstown case, in which Salem is also affected, the company had a few more men than it needed as cable splicers due to the slowness in receiving lead-covered cable. At the same time it needed three more testboard men, a job with the same wages and other contract provisions as the cable splicer's job.

The company moved two cable splicers over to the testboard where they were needed. There was no contract violation in this.

It also promoted one man from repairman to testboard man and this was done in accordance with the provisions of the existing contract. There was no contract violation in this.

The union contends that three men should have been promoted, taking from the lower rated jobs the three men oldest in the business who were at all capable of doing the job. The contract says that seniority is to be considered when the other qualifications are equal. The company desires to give promotions to senior employees, but it must give first consideration to getting the best job done.

To promote three men to the testboard and leave more men on cable splicing than were needed would be unnecessarily wasteful of the money paid in for telephone service.

The company does not believe that the public interest can be served by vacating principles of efficient management of a public service.

Miss Jean Stanley, maid of honor, was attired in white silk jersey styled with a sweetheart neckline, bracelet length sleeves, a fitted bodice and a full skirt. She carried a bouquet of red carnations tied with a white bow.

Mrs. Robert Berry and Mrs. Albert Eisenbarth, bridesmaids, wore gowns fashioned identically to the maid of honor. Their bouquets were red carnations tied with red bows.

Mary West, flower girl, was dressed in a white floor length dress of taffeta and net. She carried a white basket of rose petals.

Donald Althouse, cousin of the groom, was best man. Robert Wilkinson, brother of the groom, and Clifford Althouse, cousin of the groom, ushered.

Mrs. Elizabeth Barber, the bride's mother, was costumed in grey flowered crepe trimmed in pink sequins, augmented with a corsage of variegated carnations. Mrs. N. C. Wilkinson, the groom's mother, chose an Alice Blue gown with a corsage of variegated carnations.

The bride gave her attendants gold compacts, while the groom presented his attendants blue ties and handkerchiefs.

150 At Reception
A reception was held in the church parlor for approximately 150 guests. The table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and graced with tapers in crystal candelabra at either end.

A World War II veteran, Mr. Wilkinson served in the navy in both the Atlantic and Pacific areas.

For traveling the bride wore a grey suit with black accessories and wore a corsage of iris.

Some of the guests were from Salem, Beaver and Franklin, Pa., Columbus, Cleveland, Warren, Newton Falls, Massillon, Alliance, Sebring and Winona.

In 1882, when Thomas Edison opened the first electric power plant in New York City, shoes were cheap—but not electricity. (The price was 25c a kilowatt hour.) But this year, the 100th anniversary of the great inventor's birth, the average price of household electricity over the nation is only 3 1/3c a kilowatt hour. The Issue Is Clear In The Telephone Strike

The telephone company on Friday, February 14, through the offices of the United States Conciliation Commissioner, offered to submit to arbitration the clear-cut issue involved in the strike and that issue is whether the company in this case violated the existing contract between the company and the union.

The union never has agreed or offered to submit that question to arbitration.

The contract has provisions that cover promotions and transfers of the kind that were made in this case. The company did not violate the contract and has not refused, but has offered and is continuing to offer to arbitrate that question.

In the present instance a strike of a vital public service is too serious a weapon to use if contract violation is held by the union not to be the issue.

Moreover, the union leaders have been represented as saying that "the transfer was made without proper regard for a seniority clause in their contract" and "work would be resumed immediately if Ohio Bell agreed to arbitrate the dispute."

The foregoing are quotations from the Youngstown Vindicator of February 16.

The company offered to arbitrate this issue after two days of fruitless discussions with the union directly and through the Conciliation Commissioner. The company had hoped that through the discussions a settlement might be reached. It had a similar hope previously when, in the midst of grievance proceedings with the union, a so-called "meeting" of all union members was called and telephone service abandoned without regard to the public interest, without warning and without regard to federal law.

Actually there was no good reason to strike, there was no violation of the contract and there is no other issue to arbitrate. Meanwhile the public is being denied service and employees are deprived needlessly of thousands of dollars in wages.

DEPARTMENT OF CONJECTURE

Salem fans concerned with a comparison of Salem and Canton McKinley watched the outcome of Saturday's East Liverpool-McKinley fray with interest.

The Potters' 45-30 victory was encouraging. It indicates that Canton has slipped considerably since the loss of Lee Howell, who is out for the rest of the season with a fractured ankle, or that East Liverpool is superior to the Bulldogs.

In the event the second consideration is true, it would spell good tidings for Salem, as no one can dispute the fact that the Potters and Quakers, placed on a neutral floor, would be about as even a pair of clubs as you can find. Salem whipped East Liverpool here 37-28 on what Potter fans termed as an "off night" for the rivermen and East Liverpool took Salem 44-38 at Liverpool when four of Salem's five starters lost their shooting eyes.

McKinley and Warren Harding, since both have lost big guns recently, apparently do not measure up to Potter power, as witnessed by losses to East Liverpool Friday and Saturday. Warren was beaten 56-38 at Liverpool.

Both McKinley and Warren are considered big threats in the Youngstown meeting of Class A title contenders which starts next week.

MUSINGS ON THE STRUTHERS GAME

Most fans were greatly encouraged with the Quakers' showing against Struthers. Some said the last half was the best Salem has played this year. The shift of Tony Martinelli to the side court worked well. Both were aggressive in the new spots. Packer's 25 points came very methodically, without any particular show. Officials Joe Check and Matt Wansock turned in one of the nicest worked games of the year. The crowd was probably the smallest this season at a home game, around 1,200.

DEPARTMENT OF SOUR GRAPES

Regarding the "theft" of Wesley Fesler from the University of Pittsburgh by Ohio State, Harvey Boyle, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, says it's "cultivated kidnapping" and adds that he can't understand why Fesler would prefer the "provincialism of Ohio State to cosmopolitanism of Pitt."

He continued: "If Ohio State needs him more than we do, and if the young man will be happier at Columbus than here, take him back home. Through experience and scars Pitt has learned the hard way about such things, and so has Pittsburgh."

Pitt needn't feel so badly, she will see Fesler soon enough. Just wait until next fall.

ODDS AND ENDS

Fesler's five-year contract at Ohio State is the longest signed affair ever granted there. He expects to keep Carroll Widdoes on as his assistant. Bob Miller, Quaker coach, scouted Akron East against Canton Lehman over the weekend. Lehman won 45-32 and both looked good. Sebring figures an easy victim. Ex-New York Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia is considered a candidate for the commissionership of the All-America football conference. Lou Little still looms as the No. 1 candidate, however. Fritz Crisler made it definite when he chose to stay at Michigan that he wanted no tightening of restrictions on securing athletes. He's frank anyway.

Lynn Waldorf Accepts California Grid Tasks

LEAVES BIG NINE AFTER 12 YEARS AT NORTHWESTERN

Says Offer Was Too Good To Be Refused As He Has Good Guarantee

(By Associated Press)

BERKELEY, Calif., Feb. 17.—Big Lynn Waldorf had a new job cut to his size today—reviving the golden era of football at the University of California.

The task of coaching the Golden Bears, who last went to the Rose Bowl in 1938 when they whipped Alabama 13-0, was accepted as a "challenge" last night by the man who has been gridiron mentor of Northwestern in the Big Nine the past 12 years.

He succeeds Frank Wickhorst whose contract was taken up amidst a clamor of students after the Bears won only two games out of nine last season.

"I understand that previously the Associated Students at California have been in charge of athletics to the extent of hiring and firing coaches," Waldorf said at Evansville, Ill. "I have been told all that will be changed and that the incoming staff will be responsible directly to the president. I was assured that would be my position."

What salary Waldorf will get was not disclosed, but the jovial "Pappy" is understood to have been receiving about $10,000 a year at Northwestern, and he remarked last night that "California offers a challenge and an opportunity that I could not afford to turn down."

Free to choose his own Berkeley staff, as California bids for a return to the glory of such Bear machines as Andy Smith's 1921-22 "Wonder Teams," Waldorf will head west Tuesday to sign a three-year contract. He said he was considering as a possible assistant, Burt Ingwersen, "who was with me eight years before becoming line coach at Illinois."

'Army' Beats 'Navy' In Damascus Game

With each member of the team breaking into the scoring, the Army squad defeated the Navy veterans 43-27 in a benefit game staged by the Damascus Boosters club in the Goshen High gym Friday night.

A good crowd attended the tilt and the Boosters club raised more than $200 for their athletic fund. The army led 26-12 at halftime. They were paced in scoring by Beliner and Richards, with eight and seven points respectively. Carr led the Navy with 10.

New Castle Wins Over Saxon Club

The Salem Saxons' first loss of the season was inflicted Saturday night at the Memorial building when a determined New Castle club defeated them 58-54 in a tight ball game.

New Castle is now tentatively tied for first place in the eastern division of the Saxon loop and will play Monaca for the title. The winner will meet Salem for the league honors.

Salem held a three point lead in the last four minutes, after finally catching up with New Castle in the final quarter. However, Wally and Al Linder were ousted for personal fouls and that loss proved to be the turning point.

Rudy Schuster and "Ham" Girscht led Salem in scoring with 14 and 18 points respectively. Joe Binder was tops for New Castle with 21.

Columbiana Legion Downs AMVETS In Overtime Tilt

Climaxing a thrilling game with a "one in a million" final second play, Columbiana's American Legion quintet downed the Salem AMVETS 44-43 in an overtime contest at the High school Saturday night.

Moving ahead of the Clipper five in the third period the AMVETS held their lead until the very end of the game, only to see the visitors tie the game as the horn sounded.

With a 41-38 lead and two seconds to play, the AMVETS fouled Guard Glen Engle of Columbiana. After a conference, the team decided to shoot both foul shots awarded. Engle sank the first one to make the score 41-39. He then, purposely, missed the second and rolled the ball back off the hoop where Big Harry Hollinger leaped into the air and tapped the ball through the nets to tie the score.

The game ended before the AMVETS could take the ball out of bounds.

The overtime period found both teams shooting rather wildly. Both got a basket and then Kirby Laughlin committed his fifth foul of the game on Bob Cope. Cope sank the throw to win the game for Columbiana.

The game was close all the way, with the score being tied or changing hands eight times.

The AMVETS converted five of 13 foul attempts, while the winners hit 10 of 20. A total of 26 fouls were called in the game.

Laughlin and Amos Dunlap, both of whom played brilliant offensive games, notched 13 points apiece to lead the AMVETS in scoring. Hollinger was tops for the Clippers with 15.

In the preliminary tilt the Salem High Reserves managed to defeat the Printz club 32-31 in another close ball game.

The Reserves led 12-10 at half-time and 22-19 at the end of the third period, but the colored lads came back in the fourth to outscore them 12-10 and almost win the game.

Mo Mercer was tops for the Reserves with 10 points, while Bobby Campbell hit for nine.

Robert and Ted Boone and Charles Dunlap did the scoring for the Printz club, the latter two getting 10 points each, while Robert Boone hit for 11.

DIGGING HER WAY OUT IN ENGLAND

ACCORDING to an old saying "an Englishman's house is his castle." But now it's his igloo, as demonstrated by this housewife whose only exit from her Peak Forest, England, home is a tunnel cut through a snowdrift that has buried the house. The worst winter blizzards Britishers can recall not only has cut villages off from food, fuel and power, but it has created a national economic crisis. (International)

Auto Insurance Rates Are Raised

A 13 per cent increase in premiums on insurance for bodily injuries and property damage on automobile policies became effective in Salem today in line with similar increases throughout the country.

Because of the number of unsafe and old cars on the road, lack of construction and repairs to roads, a general increase in recklessness throughout the country and the higher cost of adjusting claims, companies generally are raising rates, local agents explained.

The increases are established by the Bureau of Casualty Insurance Underwriters and are followed by all firms, even those not connected with that group, they said.

The new rates will be effective with renewals after April 1 and with new policies immediately.
